DIVERSITYMBA MAGAZINE NAMES ALLSTATE
#4 COMPANY FOR DIVERSE MANAGERS TO WORK

New approach to ranking companies focuses on management space and pipeline development of diverse professionals.

CHICAGO, IL- DiversityMBA Magazine (DMBA), a niche publication targeting people of color and women MBAs, students, professionals and the business community will publish its third annual "Top 50 Companies for Diverse Managers To Work" in its spring issue, which will hit the newsstands in late April. Allstate has been selected #4 in the ranking.

Through DMBA's initiative Allstate was ranked against Fortune 500 companies through both primary and secondary third-party research that approached review of each organization's diversity efforts and success metrics in a unique manner as compared to many existing "top diversity" rankings. New this year, the 2008 DMBA Top 50 Companies list will showcase companies that make a strategic effort to implement accountable diversity strategies for managers of diverse backgrounds to excel and develop into the executive ranks. To differentiate itself and provide its readers with relevant, useful and cutting edge information, DMBA placed the focus of this effort on a segment of diverse management and the pipeline development of emerging leaders. Because the publication's readership consists of diverse professionals and entrepreneurs, it is important that the research reflect this audience.

"It is an honor to be recognized by DiversityMBA Magazine as one of the top companies for diverse managers," says Anise Wiley-Little, Assistant VP and Chief Diversity Officer for Allstate Insurance. At Allstate, our leadership values the diverse skills and abilities that each and every employee brings to the table. It is a core value for us and we are thrilled to be recognized for our commitment."

Allstate's approach to diversity and inclusion focuses greatly on the development of talent. The company holds its senior level executives directly accountable for the retention and advancement of diverse talent through initiatives managed by their Corporate Diversity Council. Allstate also leverages their diversity council to successfully integrate diversity into the company's direct business strategy. More than 30 percent of the company's employees are minorities and 59.2 percent of them are women.

Says Pam McElvane CEO and publisher of DiversityMBA Magazine, "The recognition bestowed upon Allstate through our research places this organization at the forefront of diversity practices that are working to change the face of Corporate America. Its integration of the business bottom line and diversity and inclusion efforts is progressive and a mark of distinction for the company."

DiversityMBA Magazine provides research reports on industry diversity programs and performance, continuing education, networking opportunities, professional development for women and people of color working in corporate America, and business entrepreneurs. The magazine is distributed at newsstands, top business schools, professional and business associations and international networks.
